Kumusta

The Stockton Challenge has successfully completed 3 years of competitive and professional competition. While Sensei Gene Tibon is having his annual Goju-Ryu competition, Master Darren Tibon is simultaneously is having the USFMAF Stockton Challenge.

The Stockton challenge is held at the San Joaquin Delta College, Joseph Blanchard Gymnasium in Stockton, CA. Throughout Stockton's history many well known Filipino martial arts practitioners have their roots, many which include Master Juan LaCosta, Grandmaster Giron, and Grandmaster Angel Cabales to mention a few, with many more throughout Stockton's history.

Held in Stockton, CA. the tournament is open to any and all outside of Stockton which might want to compete.

The Filipino martial arts competition rules are governed by the USFMAF. Having attended the Stockton challenge in 2008, I was impressed by the non-political, professional attitude of the officials, the aggressiveness of competition, and the atmosphere of brotherhood throughout all.

In 2010 the Stockton Challenge will still continue. However it will be called the Legacy Tournament in honor the Filipino martial arts Great Grandmasters, deceased and living. Not only Filipino Grandmasters and Masters of Stockton, but throughout the Filipino martial arts community.

If you are available on February 19 and 20, 2010 it is suggested you attend this memorable event.

April 20 2008

The USFMAF in conjunction with the Stockton Sports Commission USANKF of Northern California, Inc. T-Bone Productions had a duel tournament at the San Joaquin Delta College.

One part of the tournament was Karate brought to you by Sensei Gene Tibon of Tibon's Goju-Ryu Fighting Arts (www.tibonkarate.com). Simultaneously the USFMAF headed by Master Darren Tibon brought the Filipino martial arts. Both were done in professionally in all aspects.

The Filipino martial arts tournament running in unison with the Karate tournament was small in comparison, which is usual when combining two events into one and Karate is involved. However the USFMAF was a professional event in the way it was coordinated and with the judging and refereeing being honest, fair, and precise.

Sensei Gene Tibon and Master Darren Tibon

Commencing with forms competition, the student of Master Nilo Baron of Doce Pares showed his skills in performing his sayaw for the judges. Then the stick competition commenced, with padded and live stick, each competitor showing his skills. And finally the knife competition which is new to the USFMAF, but was adapted to easily and the competition, was fierce.

During the event recognition was given to Grandmaster Ramiro U. Estalilla, Jr. of Kabaroan Eskrima and Steven Dowd of the FMAdigest for their promulgating and promotion of the Filipino martial arts. Grandmaster Dionisio Canete and Grandmaster Alfredo Bandalan were also to receive recognition for their promulgating and promotion of the Filipino martial arts, but due to prior commitments were unable to attend.

Also recognition was given to judges, referees, and USFMAF for their continued and professional support to events and the Filipino martial arts.

5151 Pacific Ave.
Stockton, California

San Joaquin Delta College is the successor of the Stockton Junior College. College of Pacific rented space and equipment only. Pacific instructors taught the classes, but were employed and responsible to the Stockton Board of Education.

The physical separation of Stockton College and College of the Pacific was followed in 1951 by the resumption of lower division classes at Pacific.

Long decades without a permanent home created a desire at San Joaquin Delta College to make its new campus something special. Two key decisions were endorsed by College trustees in the fall of 1968. Though the campus would be one of the largest in California, the student population would be divided into five instructional centers. The design of each center included a central open courtyard, snack bar and study lounge. The goal is to encourage students and faculty to develop activities according to their own interests, creating a healthy campus-wide diversity.

Students with greatly different backgrounds and career interests, musicians and mechanics-meet in the hallways, lounges and sometimes classrooms and learn to respect each other's values.
